Borrowed Hope

Lend me your hope for a while
I seem to have mislaid mine.
Loss and the hopeless feelings accompany me daily.
Pain and confusion are my companions.
I know not where to turn.
Looking ahead to the future times
Does not bring forth images of renewed hope.
I see mirthless times, pain filled days, and more tragedy.
Lend me your hope for a while.
I seem to have mislaid mine.
Hold my hand and hug me.
Listen to all my ramblings.
I need to unleash the pain and let it tumble out.
Recovery seems so far distant.
The road to healing, a long and lonely one.
Stand by me. Offer me your presence.
Your ears and your love.
Acknowledge my pain, it is so real and ever present.
I am overwhelmed
With sad and conflicting thoughts.
Lend me your hope for a while.
A time will come when I will heal.
And I will lend my renewed hope to others.

Wisdom

As bereaved mothers, we know the joys and the pain of Mother's Day. Through the life and death of our child, we have loved much and lost much. We are far better people because of our children. Our wisdom surpasses anything we could have considered possible before our child died, for now we know loss, the darkest places of the human psyche, the deepest valley of the soul and the depths of insurmountable pain. This wisdom was not chosen by us. It is, nevertheless, our wisdom and experience to share with others as we choose. It is ours to keep in our minds as we live a life without our child. It is the purest wisdom one finds on this side of the moon.

We will continue to learn much about life as we live on after our child has gone. We were active participants in the lives of our children; we must be active participants in the mourning and grief following the deaths of our children. From this experience we grow ... it is painful growth, but it is absolute growth of mind and spirit. As our growth increases exponentially, we find that wondrously, we have come full circle.

One day we choose to focus on the life of our child. When that day comes, as it does for each of us, we are released from the darkness and despair and gently enter into the ambient glow of the light hope. Tentatively we take our first steps into the light. Then gradually we move with more confidence. The light glows brighter as we accept the healing it provides to us. As we heal, we reach out, we return to life, we work a little harder, love more deeply, and give freely to others. Our perspective turns outward. We will still reflect, but we will not be enveloped by our grief. We will laugh again, we will smile. We will even act spontaneously on occasion. We will live ... live in the shining light of hope.

And so, gentle mother, as you mark Mothers Day, think of your child's life. Think of love. Think of times passed and those to come. Think of your journey. Think about your vast wisdom. Think about hope. You are a remarkable work in progress. Think about that.

SOMETIMES ...

"Sometimes, I still don't believe it,"
My husband said to me
We had gone to bed, said our goodnights
And were resting comfortably.
My reply was short and to the point,
I simply said, "I know,"
Though it's been eight years since you have died
Chip, we miss you so.
The memories of our life with you
Are treasures that we share.
For nineteen years we loved you well
While you were in our care
So once again we said goodnight.
But before this we did pray.
This was a very poignant night.
This night was Father's Day.

Bereaved Parents

Different ages
 Different stages
 Different issues

Same pain
 Daily strain
 Occasional tissues

Our children have died
 Often is all we know
 A fact we fear to hide

Despite our ever-present woe
 We live with pride
 Though broken-hearted
 To love, remember, and grow

Griefscape

Shadows play with the light here
 And no matter the age gone
 Our arms ache
 Wishing to cradle our child.

This land we now inhabit is
 Vast empty plain
 Barrenness of the poles
 Harshness of deserts.

Grief rules
 Taking all color with it
 Leaving us bruised and battered
 Lost hopes and dreams
 Dark skies.

“Grief is complex stuff. It can impose a cruel trick on us all. It begins when death barges into our lives and takes our loved one from our physical grasp. It then leaves us in pain, which in turn causes a multiple array of grief reactions. Finally, because our memories are all we have, the recollections easily become blended with our pain and grief.

You can overcome this cruel trick by doing all you can to compile and retain lasting memories of this wonderful, amazing person whose love will never die. By now, you’ve likely heard of the many ways that you can keep your loved one with you still: creating a picture album, writing the person’s live story, planting a tree, giving to others in your loved one’s name, building something, producing a video, making a quilt. As you gradually experience the many levels of diminishing pain while simultaneously strengthening the memories, you will find that, despite this sad loss, you are getting a little better.”

The Cruel Trick of Grief, Bob Baugher, PhD

“My wish for all our TCF members is that each of you will wrap yourselves in the love that was, is, and will always be your child, hold that love close. Don’t let the first thing you think about each day be how your child died. Let it be how your child lived.

“How Your Child Lived”, Pat Loder

Living With A Broken Heart

I spend some time each day wondering
How different my life might be.
Why so many people that I love
Are no longer here with me.

Mothers, Fathers, a sister, then our son
Wonderful friends, beloved pets, always another one.
I know where there is love, there will also be pain.
The sadness will continue until we're together again.

When the phone rang that particular morning,
I was sure it was a call from Heaven.
The ashes of my best friend, Gabby, were ready.
It was Valentine's Day. (The time was 11:11.)

The loss of each one has left its mark.
Their legacy is what they gave to those they left below.
"It's not what you take when you leave this world,
It's what you leave behind when you go."

How many more breaths will I be allowed to take
Before it's my time to leave this world?
How many breaks can one heart take
Before it doesn't beat any more?
